Terms of Credential

EMS Instructor Credentials are valid for four (4) years from date of issuance, unless one of the following occurs:

- The OEMS imposes an administrative action against an instructor's credential. Administrative actions may be imposed by the OEMS for violations contained in 10A NCAC 13P .0701 (e).
- The instructor fails to maintain a current EMS Personal Credential at the highest level at which they are credentialed to teach.
- The instructor credential was obtained through the Legal Recognition process.

Based on successfully maintaining EMS instructor requirements, credentials are renewable for an additional four (4) years.

Legal Recognition of EMS Instructor Credentials from other States

NC OEMS may recognize EMS Instructor Credentials from other states (or US territories) and grant a North Carolina Level I EMS Instructor Credential if:

- All current NC instructor requirements have been met through that state's instructor credentialing program.
- The applicant's credentials are in good standing in the state granting the original instructor credential; and
- The instructor applicant has attended an OEMS Instructor Workshop within the last year.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide verification of the above requirements.
